

JOHN COX

Jon Cox is an Associate Professor of Art and Design and Interim Director of the Delaware Teachers Institute at the University of Delaware. A National Geographic Explorer, Fulbright Specialist, and film director and producer, he works globally at the intersection of photography, film, and community engagement. Cox has published three books, including the recent Arrivals, and collaborates with Indigenous, refugee, and immigrant communities to document stories of resilience and place. His scholarly work includes a new peer-reviewed article in Social Science & Medicine, and his recent collaborative projects are supported by the National Science Foundation, the National Institutes of Health, and the National Geographic Society.

